Agenda

8:30 – 9:00 Arrival, Coffee and donuts

9:00 Opening Remarks District staff

9:05 – 9:50 Manure Management and Agricultural Erosion and Sedimentation plans – Conservation

District staff will highlight what is required for farm plans and record keeping as well as resources for updating your own plans, technical assistance, and reimbursement programs.

10:00 – 11:30 Soil Health and Rotational Grazing– Sjoerd Duiker, Professor of Soil Management, Penn State University, will discuss the benefits of the Allegheny Grassfed program and give real examples for how to build soil health in your pastures, including benefits for the environment and the farmer.

11:30 – 12:30 Lunch – Catered lunch from The F.A.R.M. will include beef brisket, chicken BBQ, macaroni salad, baked beans, rolls, lemonade, milk, and chocolate milk

12:30 – 1:30 Direct Farm Sales – Eric Stevens and Rick Choboy with the PA Dept. of Agriculture will highlight regulations for food safety and selling meat products on and off the farm

1:30 – 2:30 Rotational Grazing in Action – Russ Wilson owns and manages a 220-acre adaptive grazing system in NW PA where livestock are pastured for over 300 days per year. With more than 40 years of practical experience in agriculture he has learned how proper forage management and species diversity can pay dividends for livestock production and soil health. Russ employs a low input and skillful management approach to make sure the farm delivers profitability and provides an enjoyable place to work.
